

Dear parents,

This week we continued our exploration of numbers, collaging a variety of fun sequins and pom poms over a numeral. In addition to choosing a favorite numeral, the children are counting the different shapes and colors used in their collage. The children are also working with the cash registers- there is lots of shopping going on!

The BIG excitement of the week was the special visit from the Greenburgh Nature Center. Caleb brought Taco (an eastern box turtle), Eleanore (an albino ferret) and Oscar (a bearded dragon). It was a very hands-on experience. Caleb explained to the children how to touch the animals and everyone got a turn. The children loved it! Caleb told us there are different animals at the Center as well as lots to discover on the grounds. They are local, here is a link to their website:

A super fun riddle book we read is Whose Toes Are Those? (Joyce Elias and Cathy Sturm). Your children did a great job of listening and looking for clues. Some were very tricky!

Wishing you all a good weekend,
Beatrice and Rachel
