

Dear Yellow Room Families,

For the next several weeks we will not be sending home quite as many art projects as usual. We will be saving the art for the Family Fun Day/Art Show May 17th. Your talented children's art will be on display that day throughout the three year old classrooms!

This week we created a kindness quilt. First the children chose a patterned piece of paper for the back of the quilt, then they glued on a heart in the color of their choice. Finally they added a hand print to it. Throughout the year we have been reading books about kindness, talking about kindness, and sharing kindness with peers and teachers. Treating others the way they want to be treated is a key element to being a good person in the world. Our kindness quilt activity allowed the children to identify, practice, and celebrate acts of kindness. We will combine the squares into a quilt, the result is a beautiful expression of unity as well as individuality! It will hang in our classroom and be on display for the Family Fun Day/Art Show.

Books we read include:

Stick and Stone by Beth Ferry

Kindness Starts With You by Jacquelyn Stagg

ABC's of Kindness by Samantha Berger

Be Kind by Pat Zietlow Miller

In addition we learned a couple of kindness songs. I'll attach the lyrics below.

Please remember to keep kids home when they have had an upset stomach, diarrhea or fever. They need to be vomit, diarrhea and fever free for 24 hours before returning to school. Many kids have been out sick and we want to prevent spreading germs as best we can. Thanks so much!

*Also please make sure kids do not bring toys in pockets or backpacks as they are very distracting. In addition, no more umbrellas. We know they are very fun & special but they make walking up and down the stairs very tricky.

Yes, I do; Yes, I do!
Friends are for sharing!

The More We Get Together

The more we get together,
together, together,
the more we get together,
the happier we'll be.

For your friends
are my friends,
and my friends
are your friends.

The more we get together,
the happier we'll be.
