

Dear parents,

We welcomed spring this week and your very observant children are noticing the many seasonal changes. Every morning we hear a woodpecker pecking outside our classroom, birds are singing, snowdrops and crocuses are emerging, and daffodils are displaying their yellow flowers near the playground, We have not yet spied a bunny outside, but this week the children made their own colorful bunnies. Inspired by the book White Rabbits Colors by Alan Baker, where a white rabbit learns about color mixing by jumping into pots of yellow, red, and blue, creating new colors! The children watercolored bunnies using yellow, red, and blue, and they also watercolored a rainbow of flowers for our walls.

Books we read this week include:

The Golden Egg Book by Margaret Wise Brown

It's Not Easy Being A Bunny by Marilyn Sadler

Little White Rabbit by Kevin Henkes

Finally we also had Greenburgh Nature Center visit Thursday. The children loved meeting the animals they brought. We saw a turtle named Emma, a quail name Quevelyn and a snake named Aires. The children were captivated by each one and had a turn to gently pet them with 1 or 2 fingers or say no thank you. Everyone did a great job, hopefully you're hearing about it at home.

We wish you all a happy, healthy, and restorative spring break. Enjoy it, and we will see you on Monday, April 6th.

Ms. Leslie, Ms. Ryan and Ms. Insley

PS- Let's start meeting on the field again in the mornings and after school. Unless it's a downpour or really freezing we can meet out on the field and keep the walkway clear for the 2's families. Please pass this along to caregivers. Thanks!
